Question 1:

One of the interested applicants would like to utilize its memorandum of understanding with Johns Hopkins SAIS and partner with the university to facilitate the intensive, multi-day "bootcamp" training, an activity under Deliverable A). The training would thus take place in Bologna, Italy utilizing the university's training facilities and saving costs. The remaining training activities would likely take place in Slovakia. Would this partnership and the location be acceptable?

INL Response:

The NOFO does not outline the guidance for partnerships and does not indicate where the bootcamp should take. The applicant is thus free to utilize its existing partnerships and host training activities at the location of its choice, provided it is cost-effective.
