

University Day Announcement

The Air Force Research Laboratory's Materials and Manufacturing Directorate (AFRL/RX) will be hosting an Industry Day on 29 November 2023. This event will support Funding Opportunity Announcement (FOA) # FA8650-24-S-5210 "Lab-to-Orbit: Accelerating the Development and Testing of Materials for Low Earth Orbit".

Purpose: Provide the Lab-to-Orbit program overview to include presentations by government and universities and open Q&A session.

Date: 29 November 2023

Time: 10:00 AM EST – 3:00 PM EST

Location: Virtual Event via a platform to be determined

Registration: Representatives from universities interested in this funding opportunity are encouraged to attend this event. Registration is limited to U.S. citizens only. To register, please email RSVP to both Technical POCs listed below by Monday, 27 November 2023. Please include the following information in your email:

Name of University
Full legal name(s) of proposed attendee(s)
Email and Telephone number for participant(s)

Attendance: No limit on attendance; maximum 1 speaker per university

Other: RSVPs will only be accepted via email. Upon receipt of the RSVP a technical POC will confirm attendance and provide any further instructions. Briefings and questions asked at the event will subsequently be made available on www.sam.gov. Copies of the information provided at Industry Day will be available upon request. Please contact the technical POCs listed below, after 30 November 2023, if you'd like to request these materials.

Technical POCs: Dr. W. Joshua Kennedy william.kennedy.21@us.af.mil

Dr. Matt Cherry matthew.cherry.2@us.af.mil

Note: This notice is being issued for planning and information purposes only. It does not constitute a solicitation, nor is to be construed as a commitment by the government. The government will not accept proposals as a result of this notice. Participation is voluntary and there is no fee to attend this event. The government will not pay for any effort expended in response to this notice or participation in the event, to include any travel costs. Meals will not be provided.