C. PROGRAM DESCRIPTION

1. Project Background, Goals, and Objectives

U.S. Studies programs play a critical role in fostering mutual understanding, strengthening academic collaboration, and advancing informed dialogue on global issues. By providing structured, interdisciplinary insights into U.S. society, governance, history, and culture, these programs equip students and faculty with the tools to engage more effectively with the United States across academic, professional, and policy spheres. In doing so, they contribute to building more resilient, informed, and cooperative international relationships.

Despite sustained interest in U.S.-related topics, many institutions face structural and resource-related limitations that hinder the full development of these programs. Outdated curricula may not reflect contemporary developments in U.S. politics, society, or innovation, reducing their relevance and appeal. At the same time, limited access to faculty training and professional development opportunities constrains educators' ability to deliver high-quality, up-to-date instruction. The absence of strong institutional partnerships further limits exposure to U.S. academic networks, joint research initiatives, and exchange opportunities.

Addressing these gaps is essential to ensuring that U.S. Studies programs remain dynamic, relevant, and impactful. Strengthening curricula, investing in faculty capacity, and fostering institutional linkages not only enhances academic quality, but also creates pathways for sustained collaboration, knowledge exchange, and mutual benefit between U.S. and international institutions.

Project Audience(s): Primary beneficiaries should include:

- University faculty in social sciences and humanities.
- Undergraduate and graduate students.
- Academic administrators.

Applicants should clearly describe participant recruitment and selection, including geographic reach, professional profiles, and expected cohort size.

Project Goal:

The project goal is to increase the quality, reach, and impact of U.S. Studies programs in higher education.

Project Objectives: Applicants should design projects that contribute to the following objectives:

Objective 1: Support Argentine universities in hosting at least two U.S.-based experts per institution to deliver guest lectures on contemporary and high-impact topics in U.S. politics, economics, and society.

Objective 2: Increase student engagement in U.S. Studies courses and related activities by 25%, as measured through enrollment figures and event attendance data.

Expected Outcome:

The program aims to increase student participation by achieving at least a 25% rise in enrollment and engagement in U.S. Studies courses and related activities, as measured through baseline and endline enrollment data and event attendance records. Additionally, it seeks to improve perceptions and understanding of the United States by ensuring that at least 50% of participants demonstrate increased knowledge and favorability, as measured through pre- and post-program surveys assessing shifts in understanding and perception.

The project is expected to expand both the quality and reach of U.S. Studies programming within Argentine universities by increasing direct engagement with U.S. experts and broadening student participation. Through the integration of guest lectures by U.S.-based specialists, students and faculty will gain exposure to current, high-impact perspectives on U.S. politics, economics, and society, enriching the academic experience and ensuring greater relevance of course content. This exposure is also expected to foster more nuanced and objective understandings of the United States, moving beyond stereotypes or partial narratives and encouraging informed, critical engagement with complex issues.

At the same time, a targeted increase in student enrollment and participation—measured at a minimum of 25%—will indicate strengthened interest and accessibility of U.S. Studies offerings. As participants develop a more balanced and comprehensive view of U.S. institutions, culture, and values, the project is anticipated to contribute to more favorable perceptions of the United States and to increase the likelihood of future academic, professional, and institutional engagement. Together, these outcomes will support more dynamic, globally connected academic environments and lay the groundwork for sustained collaboration with U.S. partners.

Note: The process of obtaining or renewing a SAM.gov registration may take anywhere from 4-8 weeks. Please begin your registration as early as possible.

- Organizations based in the United States or that pay employees within the United States will need an Employer Identification Number (EIN) from the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and a UEI prior to registering in SAM.gov.

The award document will specify what reports are required and how often these reports must be submitted. Note: most recipients will be required to submit quarterly program progress and financial reports throughout the project period. The quarterly progress report must include updated M&E data for that quarter. Progress and financial reports are due 30 days after the reporting period. Final certified programmatic and financial reports are due 120 days after the close of the project period.

All reports are to be submitted electronically.

Foreign Assistance Data Review: As required by Congress, the Department of State must make progress in its efforts to improve tracking and reporting of foreign assistance data through the Foreign Assistance Data Review (FADR). The FADR requires tracking of foreign assistance activity data from budgeting, planning, and allocation through obligation and disbursement. Successful applicants will be required to report and draw down federal funding based on the appropriate FADR Data Elements, indicated within their award documentation. In cases of more than one FADR Data Element, typically program or sector and/or regions or country, the successful applicant will be required to maintain separate accounting records.

I. OTHER INFORMATION

Guidelines for Budget Justification

Personnel and Fringe Benefits: Describe the wages, salaries, and benefits of temporary or permanent staff who will be working directly for the applicant on the program, and the percentage of their time that will be spent on the program.

Travel: Estimate the costs of travel and per diem for this program, for program staff, consultants or speakers, and participants/beneficiaries. If the program involves international travel, include a brief statement of justification for that travel.

Equipment: Describe any machinery, furniture, or other personal property that is required for the program, which has a useful life of more than one year (or a life longer than the duration of the program), and costs at least $10,000 per unit.

Indirect Costs: These are costs that cannot be linked directly to the program activities, such as overhead costs needed to help keep the organization operating. If your organization has a Negotiated Indirect Cost Rate (NICRA) and includes NICRA charges in the budget, attach a copy of your latest NICRA. Organizations that have never had a NICRA may request indirect costs of 15% of Modified Total Direct Costs (MTDC) as defined in 2 CFR 200.1.

“Cost Sharing” refers to contributions from the organization or other entities other than the U.S. Embassy. It also includes in-kind contributions such as volunteers’ time and donated venues.

Alcoholic Beverages: Please note that award funds cannot be used for alcoholic beverages and other entertainment related expenses.
