Program Description

Overview

OJP is committed to advancing work that promotes civil rights and racial equity, increases access to justice, supports crime victims and individuals impacted by the justice system, strengthens community safety and protects the public from crime and evolving threats and builds trust between law enforcement and the community.

Under this solicitation, OVC will support the development of an Alaska Native Crime Victims Center of Excellence Pilot Program ("the Center"). The Center will develop a multi-faceted approach to engaging with the 231 Federally Recognized Tribes throughout Alaska to identify gaps, promote best practices, and, using experience from the field, building an evidence base that is relevant for Alaska Native Tribes and the crime victims they serve.

Statutory Authority

OVC anticipates that any awards under this solicitation would be made under statutory authority provided by a full-year appropriations act for FY 2022.

Specific Information

The purpose of this program is to establish an Alaska Native Crime Victims Center of Excellence. The Center will identify, through research and assessment, the unique barriers that Alaska Native crime victims throughout the State of Alaska face when accessing victim services and resources, and develop recommendations, tools, and strategies to address those barriers.

Based on data from the 2020 Crime in Alaska Report released by the Alaska Department of Public Safety in September of 2021, Alaska had a violent crime rate that was twice the national rate in 2020, with a population of 727,540 and a violent crime rate of 838.9 per 100,000 residents. [Note: Population based on the population that is served by agencies reporting data into the UCR, not the total population covered by the Census.] Additionally, the University of Alaska Anchorage Justice Center surveyed 2,100 adult women in Alaska about physical intimate partner violence over their lifetime. Data from the 2020 Alaska Victimization Survey found that 48% of respondents experienced intimate partner violence, 41% experienced sexual violence, and 58% experienced either of these types of violence over the course of their lifetime.

Through these data points, in addition to the feedback OVC has received through Tribal Consultations, listening sessions, and interactions with practitioners who directly serve Alaska Native victims of crime, OVC has determined that focused effort is needed to assess the availability of services to Alaska Native victims of crime, and the availability of technical assistance resources for existing victim services programs in Alaska. The Center of Excellence model, through which an entity is established to provide leadership, best practices, research, support and/or training for a focus area, was chosen for this project to leverage what may be learned through research and data analysis. The goal is to translate the research into practice to benefit all of the 231 Federally Recognized Tribes in Alaska, and the crime victims who reside within those communities.

Goals, Objectives, Deliverables, and Timeline

Goals

The goals of the Alaska Native Crime Victims Center of Excellence Pilot Program are to:

- Engage Tribes and other Alaska-based experts and organizations with expertise in responding to Alaska Native crime victims.
- Assess the availability of crime victim services in each of the 12 Alaska Claims Settlement Act regions.
- Promote the use of the Community-Based Participatory Research approaches that facilitates social change.
- Develop recommendations to OVC to address identified needs.

Objectives

The objectives of the Alaska Native Crime Victims Center of Excellence Pilot Program are to:

- Identify the needs of Alaska Native victims of crime statewide;
- Identify any gaps in the availability, and/or provision, of victim services to Alaska Native crime victims;
- Engage community members in understanding and defining the problem of providing access to appropriate crime victim services to facilitate the translation from research to practice; and
- Determine whether available crime victim services are appropriate to the language, cultural traditions, and values of each region and make corresponding recommendations to OVC.

Deliverables

Applicants will be required to identify tangible deliverables to be produced that are directly linked to the project's goals and objectives. Examples of deliverables include:

- Crime victims needs assessments;
- Engagements with Tribal community members and practitioners ; and
- Other deliverables such as training curricula, written or video/media products, websites, etc.).

The successful applicant must produce a final summary report describing project activities, lessons learned, and an assessment of project effectiveness and the impact of implementation efforts.

The Goals, Objectives, and Deliverables are directly related to the performance measures that show the completed work's results, as discussed in the "Application and Submission Information" section.

Evidence-Based Programs or Practices

OJP strongly encourages the use of data and evidence in policymaking and program development for criminal justice, juvenile justice, and crime victim services. For additional information and resources on evidence-based programs or practices, see the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide.

Information Regarding Potential Evaluation of Programs and Activities

OJP may conduct or support an evaluation of the programs and activities funded under this solicitation. For additional information, see the OJP Grant Application Resource Guide section entitled "Information Regarding Potential Evaluation of Programs and Activities."

Application Review Information

Review Criteria

Applications that meet the basic minimum requirements will be evaluated by peer reviewers on how the proposed project/program addresses the following criteria:

1. Statement of the Problem/Description of the Issue (10%) - evaluate the applicant's understanding of the program/issue to be addressed.
2. Project Design and Implementation (45%) - evaluate the adequacy of the proposal, including the goals, objectives, timelines, milestones, and deliverables.
3. Capabilities and Competencies (30%) - evaluate the administrative and technical capacity of the applicant to successfully accomplish the goals and objectives.
4. Plan for Collecting the Data Required for this Solicitation's Performance Measures (5%) - evaluate the applicant's understanding of the performance data reporting requirements and the plan for collecting the required data.
5. Budget (10%) - evaluate for completeness, cost effectiveness, and allowability (e.g., reasonable, allocable, and necessary for project activities).

b. Other Review Criteria/Factors

Other important considerations for OVC include strategic priorities, available funding, past performance, an established record of representing and working on behalf of Tribal communities, and the extent to which the Budget Worksheet and Budget Narrative (web-based form) accurately explain project costs that are reasonable, necessary, and otherwise allowable under federal law and applicable federal cost principles.

Review Process

Applications submitted under this solicitation that meet the basic minimum requirements, will be evaluated for technical merit by a peer review panel(s) in accordance with OJP peer review policy and procedures using the stated review criteria listed above.

OJP screens applications to ensure they meet the basic minimum requirements prior to conducting the peer review. Although specific requirements may vary, the following are common requirements applicable to all OJP solicitations:

- The application must be submitted by an eligible type of applicant.
- The application must request funding within programmatic funding constraints (if applicable).
- The application must be responsive to the scope of the solicitation.
- The application must include all items necessary to meet the basic minimum requirements.

Pursuant to the Part 200 Uniform Requirements, before award decisions are made, OJP also reviews information related to the degree of risk posed by the applicant. Among other things to help assess whether an applicant with one or more prior federal awards has a satisfactory record with respect to performance, integrity, and business ethics, OJP checks whether the applicant is listed in SAM as excluded from receiving a federal award.

In addition, if OJP anticipates that an award will exceed $250,000 in federal funds, OJP also must review and consider any information about the applicant that appears in the non-public segment of the integrity and performance system accessible through SAM (currently, the Federal Awardee Performance and Integrity Information System, FAPIIS).

Important note on FAPIIS: An applicant may review and comment on any information about itself that currently appears in FAPIIS and was entered by a federal awarding agency. OJP will consider such comments by the applicant, in addition to the other information in FAPIIS, in its assessment of the risk posed by the applicant.

Absent explicit statutory authorization or written delegation of authority to the contrary, all final award decisions will be made by the Assistant Attorney General, who may consider not only peer review ratings and OVC recommendations, but also other factors as indicated in this section.
